

Latour 13th in CRA Super Series Debut

(Advance, N.C.) David Latour, Jr. went into Saturday's CRA Super Series 125-lap feature at the Concord Motor Speedway knowing he was down over 200hp and lacking experience on the track and in a Super Late Model.

In typical David Latour fashion, however, the 18-year old racer kept his cool and brought the Daniel Johnson owned No. 7 home 13th.

"Once we found out that the CRA was letting the high horsepower built motors run against us, we knew we had no shot to win, so we just decided to focus on finishing as the top crate motor car, which we nearly pulled off. Bobby Measmer and Cooper Fassin, who runs Concord weekly, finished 7th and 8th and we were 13th so overall it was a pretty decent run. I can't thank Daniel Johnson and his team enough for the opportunity, and I hope we can work together again in the future. I had a lot of fun racing for them."

Car owner Johnson, the 2009 NASCAR Whelen Series Super Late Model Champion at Concord, was impressed with David's debut. "David can wheel a car, no question about that. With no experience in the car or on the track, he really adapted well and drove a patient race using his head. I enjoyed working with him and his team last weekend."

As of now, plans call for David to compete weekly at South Boston Speedway in South Boston, Va. in 2010 with his family owned NASCAR Late Model, along with other selected shows.
